

PMaC Convolver

The PMaC Convolver takes as input the memory traces produced by PMaCinst and using information about a compute resource models the use of the processor and memory sub-system for that resource. The convolver produces a "memory time" which is an estimate of how long that application spent in the memory sub-system.